

Privacy and Cookie Policy

Who I am

This website is managed by Massimo Barbieri, a freelance professional registered with the Order of Computer Engineers.

For any questions or requests about your personal data, you can contact me at massimo@massimobarbieri.it.

What data I collect and why

- Browsing data: when you visit the site, the server automatically records some technical information (such as IP address, time of visit, pages visited). This data is used only to ensure the security and proper functioning of the site and is kept in the logs for a limited period.
- Data you voluntarily provide: the site does not have contact forms. If you choose to write to me using the email link, I will use your address and the data you provide only to reply to your message.

Cookies

The site uses only a technical session cookie (ASP.NET_SessionId), necessary to keep the navigation active.

No profiling cookies or third-party cookies are used.

For this reason, no consent banner will be shown.

How I handle the data

The data is used exclusively for the purposes described above and is not shared with third parties.

The hosting provider that supplies the server may have access to technical logs as an external data processor.

Your rights

You may at any time request information about your data, ask for its correction or deletion, or report any issues to the Italian Data Protection Authority.